NeighborWorks HomeOwnership Center Sacramento Region is pleased to announce they are open for business with a new branch location at 3133 West March Lane, #1000, Stockton!

Former banker, Luis H. Sanchez, has been appointed manager for the new Stockton office of NeighborWorks® HomeOwnership Center Sacramento Region. The NeighborWorks branch in Stockton will provide a wide range of homeownership services, including HUD certified loan modification assistance and homebuyer education, to residents of San Joaquin County and the surrounding Central Valley region.

The Stockton branch will provide a full array of services to prospective homebuyers as well as those with loan difficulties.

Sanchez comes with over 20 years experience as a former executive with JPMorgan Chase and WAMU and is a long-time resident of Stockton that will bring his knowledge of community development to deliver homeownership services in Stockton and San Joaquin County.

“NeighborWorks® is excited to bring this new branch location into Stockton. We believe in the resilience of the Central Valley and look forward to serving homeowners and homebuyers in the area from our new branch. Luis brings a breadth of knowledge and a highly developed skill set within the community development field. He is well known and respected throughout Northern California and, more importantly, in the Central Valley region”, states Pam Canada, NeighborWorks® CEO.

NeighborWorks® Sacramento Region is a chartered member of NeighborWorks® America. It is also a HUD certified housing counseling agency and a certified CDFI. With a mission “to provide opportunities for successful homeownership and strong communities through quality education, affordable lending, supportive partnerships and dedicated leadership”, the Stockton branch is well positioned to bring quality services and resources for successful homeownership to the Central Valley.
